Important Security Notice

Date Issued: 2020-06-12

Date Viewed: 2020-06-13

Today we had our domains seized illegally by government entities. They repurposed our domain to launch an attack to compromise carbon units.

With control of our domain they managed to launch a malware campaign against the carbon to weaken its security.

Due to the level of sophistication of the attack and the malware code, we can no longer guarantee the security of your device. We took immediate action on our network by disabling connectivity to combat the attack.

You are advised to power off and physically dispose of your device immediately. Period of compromise was about 30 minutes and the best we can ascertain was about 50% of the carbon devices in Europe (due to the Updater schedule).

Encrochat "Bites the Dust"? Think Twice (2020-12-12 04:13)

Since when does law enforcement attacking a commercial encryption phone and software company constitute news? Keep reading.

It appears that for a while the news was a buzz with law enforcement managing to obtain access to the primary domain that used to control the entire Enrochat franchise and actually eavesdropped on its communications which led to arrests.

The bad news? It appears that someone got it all wrong in the context of attacking a commercial encryption software and device which basically means that anyone can attack any service or a vendor that appears to be using encryption for the purpose of catching "ordes of cybercriminals".

Sample network reconnaissance for Encrochat’s network:

ENCROCHAT DATABASE DUMP | ONLY ONE SELLER | 180GB OF CHATS

Encrochat database dump all messages captured by Dutch Cybercrime team.
This messages are worth a lot and we are going to increase the price after each order!

We are the only one selling this information!

Do not ask us how we got this information, we have our ways for this ;)!

All chats are unencrypted readable in Notepad ++ 180GB worth of chats!
Million chats in total!

Here on the Dutch news:

First order 550$
Second 750$
Third 1000$
ETC.

Contact me on Wickr for more info:
[redacted]

Believe it or not but the Encrochat entire bust history is currently available online for sale meaning a bad OPSEC (Operational Security) is taking place or that someone's playing dirty and is on purposely sharing the entire database to the public.

Talk to me about public accountability? Someone should be definitely looking forward to obtaining access to the database and look for criminal sentiments in the context of justifying the law enforcement operation.

Dear blog readers,

It’s been a while since I’ve last posted a quality update and I’ve decided to share with everyone the results of a recent initiative where I aim to provide actionable threat intelligence on some of the key client-side exploits serving kits in terms of actual MD5s for the purpose of empowering

AVs and IDS snort vendors with the necessary threat intelligence to actually track down and "connect the dots" on multiple client-side exploits serving campaigns located on their servers or actually targeting their clients and customers internationally.

In this post I'll provide actionable threat intelligence on some of the market leading client-side exploits serving kits including actual MD5s with the idea to empower vendors and organizations with the necessary technical data to help them stay on the top of their game.

Sample MD5s for some of the market leading client-side exploits serving kits currently in circulation:

Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List

Compilation - Part Two (2020-12-12 04:16)

Dear blog readers,

This is the second post part of the "[2]Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List Compilation" series where I intend to share actionable threat intelligence with vendors and organizations in the context of offering and providing actionable

MD5s for high-profile and popular hacking tools currently in circulation with the idea to assist vendors and organizations on their way to track down and prosecute the individuals behind these campaigns.

Sample MD5s for some of the market leading hacking tools currently in circulation:

Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List

Compilation - Part Three (2020-12-12 04:17)

Dear blog readers,

This is the third post part of my "[2]Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List Compilation - Part Two" blog post series where I intend to share actionable threat intelligence with vendors and organizations with the idea to assist them in protecting their networks and the networks of their clients and customers.

In the third post part of the series I intend to provide additional MD5s for some of the high-

profile and currently popular and in circulation hacking tools with the idea to assist vendors and organizations on their way to properly protect their infrastructure and the infrastructure of their clients and customers.

Sample MD5s for some of the currently active hacking tools currently circulating in the wild:

Dear blog readers,

This is the fourth post part of my "[2]Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List Compilation - Part Three" blog post series where I intend to share

actionable threat intelligence with vendors and organizations with the idea to assist them in protecting their networks and the networks of their clients and customers.

In the fourth post part of the series I intend to provide additional MD5s for some of the high-

profile and currently popular and in circulation hacking tools with the idea to assist vendors

and organizations on their way to properly protect their infrastructure and the infrastructure of their clients and customers.

Sample MD5s for some of the currently active hacking tools currently circulating in the wild:

Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List

Compilation - Part Five (2020-12-12 04:19)

Dear blog readers,

This is the fifth post part of my "[2]Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List Compilation - Part Four" blog post series where I intend to share actionable threat intelligence with vendors and organizations with the idea to assist them in protecting their networks and the networks of their clients and customers.

In the fifth post part of the series I intend to provide additional MD5s for some of the high-

profile and currently popular and in circulation hacking tools with the idea to assist vendors and organizations on their way to properly protect their infrastructure and the infrastructure of their clients and customers.

Sample MD5s for some of the currently active hacking tools currently circulating in the wild:

Dear blog readers,

This is the sixth post part of my "[2]Exposing Modern Client-Side Exploits Serving Kits - An AV and Snort IDS MD5 List Compilation - Part Five" blog post series where I intend to share

actionable threat intelligence with vendors and organizations with the idea to assist them in protecting their networks and the networks of their clients and customers.

In the sixth post part of the series I intend to provide additional MD5s for some of the high-

profile and currently popular and in circulation hacking tools with the idea to assist vendors

and organizations on their way to properly protect their infrastructure and the infrastructure of their clients and customers.
